

Middle Eastern Studies: Paper Combinations

Middle Eastern Studies with a Modern Language Pathway

At Part IA (first year) and Part IB (second year) and Part II (fourth year) in the Asian and Middle Eastern Studies Tripos Arabic, Persian, Hebrew and Aramaic courses have been integrated into one 'Middle Eastern Studies' pathway. There is a separate pathway for those students combining Middle Eastern Studies (Arabic, Persian, Hebrew) with a modern language from the Modern and Medieval Languages Tripos. Such students must have a qualification to at least A Level standard in the Modern European Language to be offered.

Persian must be combined with another Middle Eastern or European language in Years 1 and 2.

The papers that can be taken in the Middle Eastern Studies with a Modern Language Pathway are laid out below. There is a separate guide for the Middle Eastern Studies Pathway.

For more information on modern language paper options see www.mml.cam.ac.uk

Please note: this is a general guide. The papers and topics on offer may vary from year to year. For more information please contact ug_progadmin@ames.cam.ac.uk

From 2022-23 the Faculty of Modern and Medieval Languages and Linguistics will be changing the scheduled paper offering for students studying German MES-MML at Part II. It is proposed that these new papers will be taught and examined for the first time in the academic year 2022-23. The changes will reduce German's Part II "menu" of scheduled papers from eight to seven, while maintaining and refreshing the full range of teaching content and addressing the need for diversity-aware teaching and learning. If you need any further information contact the Faculty of Modern and Medieval Languages and Linguistics.

There is a visual representation of this on the next page. The representation must be read in conjunction with all the information above. For information on modern language paper options see www.mml.cam.ac.uk
